

PURPOSE, VISION & VALUES

Methodist Mission Southern is a service of Te Hāhi Weteriana o Aotearoa that is a multi-disciplinary agency helping people in Otago and Southland and building tools for other agencies to use to improve their impact.

PURPOSE

Change that works: enough support and challenge for you to risk a better future.

VISION

A just society in which all peoples flourish.

VALUES

TE TIRITI O WAITANGI

The Mission recognises Te Tiriti o Waitangi as the founding of our country, acknowledges our Tiriti-based responsibilities and rights, and strives to uphold our Tiriti-aligned approach at all times.

SELF DETERMINATION

Each person, whānau, and community, has an intrinsic humanity and worth, which cannot be diminished by their acts or beliefs. Each person, whānau and community must therefore make the choices essential to managing their own lives. The Mission is committed to the Rangatiratanga of Mana Whenua, Hapū, and Iwi; and to the self-determination of all. We will meet those we work with as equals and the voices of those we work with will be central to our understanding of the assistance we can offer.

CARE

Every person is to be provided with the best care the Mission can provide. This includes: paying attention to the nature, the interests, the desires and aspirations of each person, whānau, and community we work with, and to the gifts and graces they can offer. We commit to their journey, not ours, and to cooperation, collegiality, and whānaungatanga. To achieve the greatest impact, we will build our whakapapa within the Methodist Church and the Community and Social Services sector with our distinctive approach and abilities.

FAIRNESS

A just society provides for all to participate in and maintain a common life, shared values, and purposes. Equity of access to those shared purposes and that common life is essential to any chance of a just society. Everyone has the right of connection to the civic space, each has a voice in the shaping of our shared values and objectives, and the best way of sustaining our shared humanity is to focus on what we agree on, learning from those points of disagreement that arise. We will always pay attention to others' view of what is just and incorporate that knowledge into our work.

ENDURANCE

Every inhabitant of Aotearoa is either a voyager, or the descendent of a voyager, to these remarkable islands. Many of those voyages started with considerable risks and hopes for a better future. All of those journeys required skill and perseverance to succeed. Mission staff commit to finding and using the skills and perseverance that the journey requires for a more just society, for a more impactful social services sector and for those we work with to have lives of greater discretion and meaning. Change is an uncertain undertaking, yet persistence and adaptation are the only pathways that offer success. We commit to the longer journey, to the sustainability it requires, to reaching past the clouding of the immediate and toward the achievement of change.

INNOVATION

Change cannot happen without creativity, without divergence from the norm, without risk and repeated attempts, without adaptation or imagination, and often, without failure. Change is therefore a costly investment, yet a just society requires that we, individually and collectively, as workers and clients, change. The Mission commits to the enquiry, imagination, and inventiveness that enable innovation to flourish. We understand that this means a pragmatic approach to what works and what doesn't, and a commitment to the follow through: good ideas are nothing without rigorous testing and managed implementation.
